

DCR-CTU Lecture

The Power of Patient Engagement: Patient and Public Involvement (PPI) in Clinical Research

Wednesday, 28 June 2023
12.45-13.30 (Zoom Meeting)

Speakers

- Prof. Eva Segelov, Director of the Department of Clinical Research (DCR)
- Sarah Berner, Project PPI, DCR
- A researcher and a member of the DCR patient panel

Open to healthcare professionals, researchers, patients, and the public.
The lecture will be held in English and German.
Admission is free.

Please register in advance here:

<https://unibe-ch.zoom.us/meeting/register/u5wpduqrqTotHtTr7bj-c5yYid6lxzGQCjtJ>

PPI in clinical research is about actively involving patients and the public in shaping research projects. By sharing their perspective and experience, patients and the public contribute unique insights to optimize clinical research.

The DCR is dedicated to implementing a comprehensive program to support researchers in implementing PPI in their research projects. Join this lecture, to learn about the fundamentals of PPI, explore the established framework at DCR, and discover the tools available to researchers for successful implementation. Gain inspiration from real-life examples of effective patient and public involvement and get acquainted with a member of our patient panel.

u<sup>b</sup>